PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

Dear parents, carers and community members,

YEAR 6, BRAVO!

The reports from Mr Tyrrell, Mr McGrath and Mrs Menzies were outstanding. They could not have been more complimentary about the students, their attitude, behaviour and participation. Likewise I have heard from many, many of the Year 6 students how grateful they are to their teachers for this fantastic experience.

Students and teachers alike also wish to thank Mr Saunders for his faultless tour knowledge and guidance.

I know the teachers, students and their families are also very appreciative of the amazing administration and organisation Mrs Groves and Mrs Gilman support such excursions with. And so I say BRAVO all round!

KILOMETRE CLUB

This trial was a resounding success. Our students covered over 1500km during the past few weeks. There is some tweaking to be done for next year but we are looking at holding the activity for several weeks each term. We would very much appreciate some help from families in the mornings, so if you see the club start up next year and you are able to help, we would love to hear from you.

ROBOTICS

We are sending a team to Sydney next week to compete in this prestigious competition. We are very grateful to Camden Haven High School who are providing transport for our team. Good luck and thank you Mrs Menzies for, once again, providing support for our students in their endeavours.

SAFE ENTRY AND EXIT

Thank you to families who have taken extra time and care to ensure our students safely enter and exit our school. The pedestrian flow near the buses is much improved. Next year we will investigate some fencing to put a barrier between the buses and the walkers.

GALA Night

Our performing arts night will be held next Thursday 1st December in our hall. The night will begin at 6:30pm and we ask for a gold coin donation. Performers should arrive at 6.00 pm. It will be a most entertaining and uplifting night with our bands and choir showing us the culmination of all their hard work, practice and new learning over the year.

PERTUSSIS (WHOOPIING COUGH)

We have had a confirmed case of whooping cough in a student at our school. We have contacted NSW Health and follow their guidelines. Included in this newsletter is another copy of information for families.

Kind regards,

Christine Wild
Principal

VISION: North Haven Public School, in partnership with our community, promotes and provides a dynamic, future-focused learning environment fostering equity and excellence. Our school will deliver opportunities for every student to become a successful learner and a caring, confident, creative individual.

ROTARY JUNIOR COMMUNITY SERVICE AWARD

A big congratulations to Julia Cable (6T) and Charli Hearne (5/6M) who, last Monday received Rotary Junior Community Service Awards in recognition of their community service and engagement.

To qualify for this award both girls completed a rigorous project that involved:

- 10 consecutive weeks of community service learning a new skill or enhancing an existing skill through a 10 hour self-improvement program
- A minimum of 2 hours per week physical recreation/ activity
- Engagement and reporting on 5 key social experiences: a community commemoration, a community meeting, a cultural exchange, a religious or spiritual experience and a cultural/arts experience.

As you can see attaining this award required a considerable commitment of time and effort, over two terms. The girls gained much from the experience and we are super proud of their efforts!

Congratulations Charli & Julia.

Assistant Principal

Performing Arts Gala Night

Thursday 1 December

Next Thursday is our annual Performing Arts Gala night, and everyone is expected to be there! This is the night that we show just how far we have come during the year. Both bands and the Choir are performing, plus a few extra musical items including the much-anticipated Staff band!

Please wear Christmas mufti, and be at school ready to tune up and warm up at 6pm (show starts at 6.30pm). Don't forget your instrument and music!!!

Bring your family and friends...you have worked hard all year, and it is always much more fun to play to a large, appreciative audience!

Presentation Day

Friday 9 December

The Junior Band performs at the K-2 assembly (9.30), and the Senior Band performs at the 3-6 assembly (11.15). This is a FULL SCHOOL UNIFORM event!

Bonny Hills Carols on the Deck

Sunday 11 December

The Senior Band and the Choir perform at this event, and it is a great opportunity to show the wider community just how good we are! More details will follow including our performance time.

Please wear Christmas mufti, and of course bring your instrument and music. Some of our high school friends from Band Camp will play with us, so it will be a lot of fun!

Please see Mrs Skerritt or Mrs Bruggemann ASAP
if you know that you can't be at any of these performances!

Junior Band 2017

We have already held quite a few auditions, and we are getting a good picture of what our Junior Band will look like next year.

We have some more children to audition, and few other details to work out, but hopefully we will know before the holidays just who is going to play what! We'll keep you posted.

Band Cleaning Day

This will be held on Monday, 12 December, so all school instruments will need to be back at school by then.

We will collect the Senior Band's instruments after the Bonny Hills Carols on Sunday 11 December and bring them back to school. Junior Band members can leave theirs at school after Presentation Day on Friday 9 December.

This is an important part of our instrument maintenance program, and we ask for everybody's co-operation in having instruments available at this time.

Senior Band 2017

Thank you to everyone who has already returned their forms to continue in 2017. Final numbers need to be submitted for planning purposes by Friday, 2 December.

SPECIAL SWIMMING SCHOOL

Information for parents, guardians and students

Our school has partnered with Transport for NSW to use the new online process for you to submit school travel applications.

This means we will be able to process your applications online, making it easier and faster for parents, guardians and students to apply for school travel.

Applications for school travel in 2017 are now open, including for travel to Mascot and Green Square station and for private ferries. Parents, guardians and students are encouraged to apply as soon as they are able via:

Applications for 2017 school travel are now open via www.transportnsw.info/school-students

A new application is required when:

- applying for a School Opal card or travel pass for the first time,
- enrolling in Kindergarten, or
- requesting an additional entitlement as a result of a shared parental responsibility situation.

You will need to do an update application if the student has a current school travel pass and:

- is progressing from Year 2 to Year 3,
- is progressing from Year 6 to Year 7, or
- changes address, or
- changes school or campus.

Already have a School Opal card or travel pass?

- When you've updated, and you are eligible for free school travel next year, Transport for NSW will send you an email confirmation once your application has been processed. For travel in rural or regional NSW, we'll also inform your nominated transport operator(s).
- If you already have a School Opal card that does not need updating, or you've successfully re-applied, the Opal card will automatically be updated for travel next year. Do not throw it out as you'll be able to use it when the school year starts in 2017.
- If you currently have a printed travel pass provided by your transport operator, a new pass will be ready at the beginning of the new school year.

Year Six had a fantastic trip to Sydney last week! There were many highlights to enjoy and fantastic memories made!

Students have expressed a range of positive comments about the trip and all found special aspects of interest. For some it was their first time in the city; for all there were places they had never been to before.

Congratulations to all the students who showed their best North Haven attitude and effort throughout the trip. We are always warmly welcomed at each venue as the school has established a very high reputation from the great efforts of those NHPS students who have been there before. Our current students certainly upheld this reputation and made the staff feel very proud to be accompanying them around the city.

Year 6 Sydney Excursion

Whooping cough affects people of all ages. It can be especially serious for babies. Vaccination reduces the risk of infection.

Whooping Cough (Pertussis)

Last updated: 30 March 2015

What is whooping cough?

Whooping cough can be a life threatening infection in babies. Whooping cough in babies can lead to apnoea (pauses in normal breathing), pneumonia, feeding problems and weight loss, seizures, brain damage and, in some cases, death. Older children and adults can get whooping cough too and pass it on to babies.

What are the symptoms?

- Whooping cough usually begins like a cold with a blocked or runny nose, tiredness, mild fever and a cough.
- The cough gets worse and severe bouts of uncontrollable coughing can develop. Coughing bouts can be followed by vomiting, choking or taking a big gasping breath which causes a "whooping" sound. The cough can last for many weeks and can be worse at night.
- Some newborns may not cough at all but they can stop breathing and turn blue. Some babies have difficulties feeding and can choke or gag.
- Older children and adults may just have a cough that lasts for many weeks. They may not have the whoop.

How is it spread?

- Whooping cough is spread when an infectious person coughs bacteria into the air which can be inhaled by people nearby. If they are not treated early, people with whooping cough are infectious in the first three weeks of their illness.
- Whooping cough spreads easily through families, childcare centres and at school.

Who is at risk?

- Anyone can get whooping cough. People living in the same household as someone with whooping cough are especially at risk.
- Immunisation reduces the risk of infection but immunity fades over time. You can still get whooping cough even if you've been immunised.

How is it prevented?

Whooping cough vaccines provide good protection from infection but immunity fades which means that boosters are needed.

Immunisation for babies

- Babies need to be immunised at 2 months, 4 months and 6 months. The first dose can be given as early as 6 weeks of age.
- Getting your baby vaccinated on time gives them some protection when they are most at risk of severe illness.
- If your baby's vaccines are overdue, see your GP now to catch up.

Immunisation for older children

- A whooping cough booster is needed at 4 years of age.
- Check if your child has been vaccinated. Look at their Blue Book, speak to your GP or ring the Australian Childhood Immunisation Register on 1800 653 809.
- A second whooping cough booster is given in high school through the NSW School –based Vaccination Program.

Immunisation for adults

A booster for adults is recommended for:

- Women who are in the third trimester of pregnancy, preferably at 28 weeks. Free vaccine is provided in NSW through Gps and hospital antenatal clinics.
- Other adult household members, grandparents and carers of infants under 12 months of age.
- Adults working with young children, especially health care and child care workers.

If you are a close contact of someone with whooping cough:

- If you have been exposed to someone with whooping cough early in their illness while they are infectious, watch out for symptoms and see your doctor if you get a new cough.
- Some babies and some pregnant women need antibiotics to prevent whooping cough infection if they have had significant contact with an infectious person.

How is it diagnosed?

Your doctor may ask about your symptoms and whether there you've had any contact with whooping cough. If your doctor thinks you have whooping cough, a swab from the back of the nose or throat can confirm the diagnosis.

How is it treated?

- Some babies may need treatment in hospital or in intensive care.
- Antibiotics are used to treat whooping cough in the early stages and can help prevent spreading whooping cough to others. People who are not treated early with the right antibiotics can spread the infection in the first 3 weeks of their illness. After 5 days of antibiotics, you are normally no longer infectious.
- The cough often continues for many weeks, despite antibiotics.

What is the public health response?

Doctors and laboratories must confidentially notify cases of pertussis to the local Public Health Unit. Public Health Unit staff can advise on the best way to stop further spread.

Infectious children are restricted from going to pre-school and school. Unimmunised contacts may be excluded from child care unless they take the special antibiotics.

Dana's story

Baby Dana was born a happy, healthy girl. She was breastfeeding well and putting on weight. At 11 days old, she developed a blocked nose and was unsettled at night. Dana's parents acted quickly and saw the GP. When she was three weeks old, Dana developed an occasional cough and appeared to gag, and her parents returned to the GP. As soon as Dana tested positive for whooping cough, she went straight to hospital.

Soon after arriving, Dana had her first coughing bout where she turned blue and needed oxygen. On the third day at hospital, Dana developed pneumonia and she was placed on a ventilator. She was transferred to intensive care.

On the fifth day, the whooping cough toxins caused her organs to shut down and Dana had a cardiac arrest. She was only 32 days old when she died.

Nobody knows where Dana was infected with whooping cough. It may have been at her sibling's school or preschool. A loving relative or friend, or a complete stranger may have unknowingly passed the infection on.

Whooping cough affects people of all ages, but the real danger of the devastating disease is on young babies like Dana.

That's why it's up to everyone to

Whooping Cough

IDENTIFY

What is whooping cough?

- Whooping cough (or pertussis) is a serious respiratory infection that causes a long coughing illness. In babies, it can lead to pneumonia and brain damage.
- Whooping cough can be life-threatening for babies. Newborns are not immune and they often get extremely sick.
- Older children and adults can get whooping cough and can spread it to others, including babies.
- Antibiotics can prevent whooping cough spreading if given early but the cough often continues after treatment.

What are the symptoms?

- Whooping cough starts like a cold with a blocked or runny nose, sneezing, a mild fever and an occasional cough.
- The cough gets worse and severe bouts of uncontrollable coughing develop. Coughing bouts can be followed by vomiting, choking or taking a big gasping breath which causes a "whooping" sound. The cough can last for many weeks and can be worse at night.
- Some newborns don't cough at all but stop breathing and turn blue.
- Older children and adults may just have a mild cough that doesn't go away.

How is whooping cough spread?

- A person with whooping cough can spread it to others in the first 3 weeks of illness. Bacteria coughed into the air can be inhaled by babies, children or adults nearby. These people are then in danger of getting whooping cough.

PROTECT

Protect your baby

- Newborns are not immune until they have had their whooping cough vaccines. To protect them until they are immune, keep people with a cough away from your baby.
- The vaccine for babies is given at 2, 4 and 6 months. The first dose can be given as early as 6 weeks. Immunise your baby on time so they can be protected as soon as possible. If your baby's vaccines are overdue, speak to your GP about catching up.
- Whooping cough vaccine is effective but doesn't protect all babies. You still need to watch out, even if your baby is immunised.

Older children

- By immunising older children with boosters at 4 years and in high school, you give them some protection against whooping cough. This also helps to stop spread to others.
- Check if your child has been vaccinated. Look at their Blue Book, speak to your GP or ring the Australian Childhood Immunisation Register on 1800 653 809.
- Remember that even immunised children can sometimes catch whooping cough.

Adults

- Adults can get whooping cough and can spread the infection to babies. They may just have mild symptoms and may not realise that their cough could cause harm.
- If you're a new parent, you can top-up your immunity by getting a whooping cough booster. Boosters are also recommended for grandparents, couples planning a pregnancy, and for child care workers and health care workers.
- Whooping cough vaccines are available from your GP, Aboriginal Medical Service, community health centre or council clinic.

PREVENT

How can I prevent the spread of whooping cough?

- Whooping cough is highly infectious in the first 3 weeks. It spreads easily through families, childcare centres and schools, so it's important to act fast.
- Anyone with symptoms should see a doctor as soon as possible. Your GP can test for whooping cough. Early diagnosis is especially important for new parents and people who have regular contact with babies.
- If whooping cough is detected early enough, your doctor may prescribe a course of antibiotics. After 5 days of treatment, enough bacteria are killed to stop spread to others.
- In some situations, other people who have been in contact with an infectious person may also need antibiotics to help prevent the infection, especially if they are babies or if they have close contact with babies.
- People diagnosed with whooping cough should stay away from work, school or childcare until no longer infectious. Ask your doctor when it's safe to return.
